

Started at Mesa College? Earn Your Bachelor's Degree from SDSU

If you're a San Diego Mesa College student, you can now earn a bachelor's degree from San Diego State University through our new Mesa College Microsite Degree Completion Program.

Two Unique Bachelor's Degrees

B.S. in Business Administration

Developed by SDSU's Fowler College of Business, our Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree completion program is designed to help you earn a business degree that works for you, on your schedule.

This online business program covers a wide range of essential topics, including marketing, human resources, consumer behavior, finances, international business strategies, and more. The curriculum is ideal for many types of students, whether you're new to the business world, a working professional interested in moving your career forward, or a business owner who wants to learn how to tackle the challenges facing your business today.

Min. Completion Time: 2 Years

B.A. in Communication

Developed in collaboration with SDSU's School of Communication, our Bachelor of Arts in Communication degree completion program will teach you how to develop integrated, interactive, international, and intercultural communication strategies designed for the twenty-first century.

You'll develop an advanced ability to communicate to different types of audiences through a variety of mediums, including debate, writing, verbal and nonverbal communication, and public presentations. You'll also learn about the history of communication, rhetorical theories, and communication applications.

Whether your goal is marketing, business, education, social work, or something in between, a communication degree from SDSU will help you achieve your professional goals.

Min. Completion Time: 2 Years
