SDSU Mission Valley Campus Lecture
Friday, Sept. 21
12–1:30 pm
SDSU Extended Studies Center

SDSU believes that any development on the Mission Valley stadium site should serve higher education, the public good, and the community’s goals and aspirations. SDSU Mission Valley envisions a vibrant, mixed-use, medium-density development that is transit-oriented, and expands the university’s educational, research, entrepreneurial, and technology transfer programs.

SDSU Mission Valley is SDSU’s vision for the stadium property, should the SDSU West initiative be approved by voters in November 2018. This presentation will focus on the vision, not the initiative—which is sponsored by the Friends of SDSU, an entity that is not affiliated with the university.

Friends of SDSU is a coalition of San Diegans, SDSU alumni, business and community leaders who believe Mission Valley represents a unique opportunity for SDSU and the region. The SDSU West initiative was recently endorsed unanimously by the California State University Board of Trustees, and a representative from Friends of SDSU will provide a brief presentation on the facts of the initiative and how it will pave the way for the university’s expansion.

Presenters
- Gina Jacobs, assistant vice president of Divisional Communications & Strategy, Business and Financial Affairs, SDSU
- Gordon Carrier, principal architect, Carrier Johnson + Culture
- Steve Doyle, representative from Friends of SDSU

The presentation will be followed by a Q&A.

Presenter Bios

Gina Jacobs serves as assistant vice president for Divisional Communications and Strategy in the Division of Business and Financial Affairs at SDSU, managing many of the strategic initiatives led by the VP and CFO, including the SDSU Mission Valley project. She graduated from SDSU with a bachelor’s in journalism (2001) and a master’s in mass communication and media studies (2010).

Gordon Carrier is the founder and design principal of the global design firm, Carrier Johnson + CULTURE, headquartered in San Diego. The firm’s award-winning projects, in public and private market sectors, can be seen in the lively Gaslamp Quarter, the stylish Little Italy neighborhood, the vibrant Central Business District, and the emerging East Village District.

Steve Doyle is the president and owner of Sandy Point Properties, an infill builder/developer in San Diego County. He earned a bachelor’s degree in engineering from SDSU in 1980 and a Juris Doctorate in 1984 from the University of San Diego, School of Law. He is a registered civil engineer and admitted into the Federal and California State Bar.
